Claim Objections

Claims 9 and 10 are objected to because of the following informalities: in claim 9 line 2, "the deploying step" has not been previously recited. Appropriate correction is required.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 11-13 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 32,41 and 42 of U.S. Patent No. 6749621. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the application claims are merely broader in scope than those of the patent, and also recite structure or steps implicit in the subject matter claimed by the patent.

For example, the claims of the application call for the distal end of the actuator to be between the hub and the elongate member. This is not specifically recited in the patent, however, the patent recites that the closure element is carried by a carrier assembly slidable on an outer surface of the elongate member and that the carrier assembly includes a plunger which is inserted through a hub on the proximal end of the tubular member. Therefore, the applications claimed subject matter is implicit in the patent's claimed subject matter.

Claims 11-13 are provisionally rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1,10 and 11 of copending Application No. 2004/0167570 (appl. No. 10/786444). Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the application claims are merely broader in scope than those of the patent, and also recite structure or steps implicit in the subject matter claimed by the patent. For example, the claims of the application call for the distal end of the actuator to be between the hub and the elongate member. This is not specifically recited in the patent, however, the patent recites that the closure element is carried by a carrier assembly slidable on an outer surface of the elongate member and that the carrier assembly includes a plunger which is inserted through a hub on the proximal end of the tubular member. Therefore, the applications claimed subject matter is implicit in the patent's claimed subject matter.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 1-8 are allowed.
